As we celebrate this year's APTUK professional conference, our exceptional programme promises to bring together exclusive highly respected pharmacy leaders to give all the latest updates from a changing healthcare landscape for Pharmacy.

Since our conference last year, healthcare and pharmacy finds itself challenged in an unprecedented way. Now, more than ever, Pharmacy Technicians need a platform, as key members of the pharmacy team, to showcase how the profession, is and can support the delivery of person centred care for better patient outcomes. Our conference provides the perfect environment for self-motivated and committed professionals to share knowledge and practice, to network with each other and to connect together from all sectors of pharmacy.

As we bring together delegates, from all corners of the UK and beyond, to this truly unique conference for Pharmacy Technicians, I strongly recommend to them and their employers, that they attend to learn how others are changing their practise to support medicines optimisation and patients in understanding more about their medicines.

We very much look forward to welcoming delegates, to enter into engaging conversations and debates and reflect on our future professional practice.

Tess Fenn, President, APTUK
